VICTORY CORPS

The National WWII Museum's Teen Volunteer Program

In 1942, the student Victory Corps was mobilized to aid in the war effort on the American home front.

Today, The Victory Corps is the National WWII Museum's newest volunteering opportunity for middle and high school students, ages 13 - 17.

The Victory Corps is seeking students with an interest in history to join in the fight and bring a living component into the Museum's world-class exhibits. Victory Corps volunteers will share actual artifacts from World War II and lead fun, interactive activities with Museum visitors, bringing the history of the war to life.

It's a perfect opportunity to learn about history, meet new people, and make new friends. Do not delay —

Enlist with The National WWII Museum's Victory Corps today!

Victory Corps volunteers complete four hours of training with Education & Volunteer Department staff on the history of WWII, as well as proper artifact handling and presentation techniques.

Victory Corps volunteers have a choice to serve two four-hour Saturday shifts per month: 10am–2pm.

Victory Corps volunteers' commitment of service will be at least eight hours per month for the minimum of three months.

Victory Corps volunteers earn service hours, access to behind-the-scenes areas and other recognition!
