

Campaigns of Courage: European and Pacific Theaters Fact Sheet

Total Square Feet: 32,512 square feet (8,700 square feet encompass Road to Berlin: European Theater Galleries and approximately 10,000 square feet make up the Road to Tokyo: Pacific Theater Galleries – opening December 2015)

Opening Date: December 13, 2014 (Road to Tokyo: Pacific Theater Galleries opens December 2015)

Overview: At the heart of the Museum experience, this soaring pavilion takes visitors onto the battlefield, behind the hedgerows, and inside the story of how the war was won. The two-level, 32,000-square-foot building is divided into a pair of chronological exhibitions—Road to Berlin: European Theater Galleries and Road to Tokyo: Pacific Theater Galleries—each immersive, interactive, and uniquely evocative of the dramatic environments that shaped the war. With authenticity in every detail, key settings have been brought to life by a dream team of Broadway set designers, world-class lighting designers, video producers, millworkers, and other artisans. Those settings are then filled with artifacts, sound effects, and cutting-edge technology--some of it developed exclusively for this venue. The result: a richly layered, multimedia experience that invites exploration, forges connection, and leaves an indelible impression of the war's epic story.

Project Cost: $35 million

Project Contractors

Architect: Voorsanger Mathes, LLC

General Contractor: Roy Anderson Corp

Exhibit and Experience Design: Gallagher & Associates

Research and Scriptwriting: History Associates, Inc.

Exhibit Lighting Design: Available Light

A/V Systems Design: Romeantics

Exhibit Fabrication: Solomon Group, Explus Incorporated

Media Production: Northern Light Productions, Aperture Films, Unified Field, Atherton Pictures

Exhibit Lighting: Solomon Group

A/V Integration: Solomon Group