The American Legion Centennial Commemorative Tour

Dear Legionnaires,

Whether your American Legion post was chartered in 1919 or 1991, it has a story. Behind every namesake, there was a man or woman who made an important contribution or sacrifice. In times of tragedy, triumph and troop support, your post has stepped up and proudly served, helped others and left a mark that will not be forgotten. The 100th anniversary of The American Legion is not only an opportunity to look back on all your post has achieved. It is also the perfect time to chart a course for the second century. New generations of veterans depend on the kind of vision shared and expressed by the World War I-era founders.

Now, for the first time ever, The American Legion, in alliance with The National WWII Museum in New Orleans, is offering Legionnaires the opportunity to travel to France to celebrate our 100th birthday. Visit the famous American Legion Paris Post #1, stand where the World War I armistice was signed in Compiègne, walk on Omaha Beach, and honor the sacrifices of those who served before us in World War I and World War II. We invite you to participate, celebrate, commemorate, and learn what it means to be a Legionnaire by experiencing where it all started.

Sincerely,

The American Legion

DAY 5: CHÂTEAU-THIERRY / Belleau Wood / Normandy

After an early breakfast, the journey begins to the Normandy region. Along the way, the focus turns back in time to some of the first American actions during WWI, with stops in Château-Thierry and Belleau Wood. During fighting at Château-Thierry, American forces joined the French in launching the first assault on German forces in more than a year, taking the Germans by surprise in the predawn hours of July 18, 1918. Belleau Wood is the setting where the US Marine Corps' determination and dedication shined through to their fullest. At each of these locations, visits to the battlefields and monuments help explain the nature and importance of these early battles.

Upon arrival in Bayeux this evening, check into the historic Hotel D'Argouges, before enjoying time for exploration of this quaint medieval town and an independent dinner at one of Bayeux's many restaurants and cafes.

THROUGH THEIR EYES

Remembering the Fallen in Normandy

– PURPLE HEART & MEDAL OF HONOR – GENERAL THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JR. 1887 – 1944 Brigadier General, US Army, 26th Infantry Infantry Regiment

THEODORE ROOSEVELT JR. (1887-1944), GREETING REPORTERS WITH A BIG SMILE AS HE WAVES HIS HAT. COURTESY OF EVERETT COLLECTION HISTORICAL/ ALAMY STOCK PHOTO Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., the eldest son of American President Theodore Roosevelt, fought in both world wars. In 1919, after fathering the creation of The American Legion, Roosevelt fought off all efforts to be elected national commander. Always known to enjoy being a common soldier and Legionnaire, Roosevelt was assigned to the US 4th Infantry Division, and was stationed in England prior to the Normandy invasion in 1944. Roosevelt had requested to lead the attack on Utah Beach with the first wave of soldiers, but the request was repeatedly denied by Major General Raymond O. Barton. Barton eventually agreed, albeit reluctantly, and made it very clear that he did not expect Roosevelt to live through the initial landings on Utah Beach.

Roosevelt would be the only general to land with the first wave of troops on any of the Allied beaches on D-Day.

At the time of the D-Day landings on June 6, 1944, Roosevelt was 56 years old, frail, and required the aid of a walking stick. Despite his poor health, which had suffered as a result of his service during World War I, he proved to be a fine leader, and as depicted in the film The Longest Day, he famously stated, "We'll start the war from right here!", when he realized his troops were landing 2 km off course. Later in the day, once the beach head at Utah Beach was secured, General Barton came ashore and to his great surprise, Roosevelt was waiting to meet him. On July 12, 1944, after being involved in fierce fighting, Roosevelt suffered a heart attack. He was buried at the Normandy American Cemetery in Colleville-sur-Mer. His Legionnaires never forgot him. His 1945 Distinguished Service Medal was accepted shortly after his death by his widow, Eleanor. In 1949, 30 years after he resisted calls to lead the organization, Legionnaires named him a past national commander. His grandson, Theodore Roosevelt IV is currently serving as the American Legion 100th Anniversary Honorary Committee Chairman, continuing the work his grandfather and fellow co-founders intended to achieve a century ago.

DAY 8: BAYEUX OR Mont Saint-Michel

The final day in Normandy is dedicated to the cultural treasures saved during the liberation of France. Guests may also elect to take a day-trip to the UNESCO World Heritage site of Mont Saint-Michel. A tidal island off the coast of Normandy, Mont Saint-Michel has been home to strategic fortifications since ancient times, and has been the seat of a monastery since the 8th century.
