Dear Friend of the Museum,

I invite you to join The National WWII Museum on a commemorative 75th anniversary tour of the sites made significant during the Battle of the Bulge. Expertly researched by our own staff, and led by expert battlefield guide Roland Gaul and military historian Edwin Popken, this is the most immersive tour of the Ardennes available today. From the famous “northern shoulder” of the Bulge near Elsenborn Ridge, through the Bastogne Corridor, and to the Luxembourg Ardennes, you will trace the routes of the last major German offensive in the West and encounter the heroic stories of the soldiers who fought and won America’s largest and costliest campaign of World War II.

In late 1944, few thought that a massive German counterattack was possible. Rome fell on June 4, and two days later, the greatest amphibious invasion in history brought more than 150,000 men to the shores of Normandy on D-Day. By the end of August, French and American soldiers were marching through the streets of Paris. Hitler’s “Fortress Europe” was broken, and the Allies were rushing toward the German border on the road to Berlin. As Christmas approached, the Allied Forces in Europe felt the war was nearing its end. But on December 16, that optimism vanished suddenly. The supposedly impossible German counterattack was here and was larger than anyone could have anticipated. With over 400,000 German soldiers ready to push into the Ardennes, the next five weeks tested the limits of our troops.

Anyone who has read or watched Band of Brothers by Museum founder Stephen Ambrose knows of the swirling snow, the bitter cold, and the murderous nature of the German onslaught. We are honored to be joined by Robin Laing, the actor who portrayed “Babe” Heffron in the HBO miniseries. He will share his insight on what it was like to train for and re-create the battle for episode 6: “Bastogne”.

We invite you to commemorate the battle during the time of year when it happened — exactly 75 years ago. This tour retraces the unexpected, dramatic battle and offers the unique opportunity to visit key sites blanketed in snow with expert battlefield guides. Join us for this inspiring educational journey, and stand in the precise locations where the American Spirit overcame the last desperate gamble of the Third Reich.

Sincerely,

Stephen J. Watson
President & CEO, The National WWII Museum

“I had wanted to take the Battle of the Bulge tour for a long time. The experience of the war changed my dad, as it did most veterans. I was able to share with our group my father’s Silver Star and Presidential Unit Citation at the Twin Villages. Very moving experience. I would recommend this tour to anyone.”
– Robert B. Gretna, NE

“I had the privilege of laying the wreath during the ceremony. My brother was wounded at the Battle of the Bulge in 1944 and again in 1945. My mother was National President of the Gold Star Mothers. My other brother was killed in September 1944. This trip meant a lot to me!”
– Marge H. Richmond, IN

“The wreath laying was a very nice experience and showed us how important the locals regard the sacrifices made by these men and how important it is that they must never be forgotten. It was truly special to see the foxhole positions occupied by the troops 74 years ago!”

“Roland is wonderful. Roland’s knowledge of the Battle of the Bulge was very impressive, and the tour manager had the trip well planned and kept us on schedule without being pushy. The accommodations in Clervaux were outstanding; the meals were good and in locations that allowed us to mix with others on the tour. Great tour, well planned, well executed.”
– William H. Little Rock, AR
For more than 25 years, Edwin Popken has studied World War II and visited the battlefields throughout Europe, both well-known and lesser-known. His main interests are the operations in Northwest Europe between September 1944 and March 1945. A regular guide on the Museum’s Easy Company: From England to the Eagle’s Nest tours, Edwin has escorted guests from all across the United States to sites of Operation Market-Garden, the Huertgen Forest, and the Battle of the Bulge.

Edwin holds a Master’s degree in Military History from the University of Birmingham, UK and is a member of the International Guild of Battlefield Guides with guild badge number 93.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, Robin Laing grew up in the fishing and golf towns of Arbroath and Carnoustie. After studying drama, he landed his first acting job playing Renton in the stage adaptation of Irvine Welsh’s Trainspotting. Many more roles were to follow, including the lead role of Phil McCann in John Byrne’s film The Slob Boys, Arthur Conan Doyle in Dr. Bell and Mr. Doyle for the BBC, and a series regular in the popular TV show The Lakes.

In 2000, Robin was cast as Edward ‘Babe’ Heffron in the HBO production of Band of Brothers, which followed the lives and achievements of the 101st Airborne’s Easy Company during World War II. He had no idea that this eight-month job would have such a profound effect on his life and lead to lifelong friendships, not only with his fellow cast members, but also with the veterans on whom the series was based and their families.

Robin continues to work internationally in television, theater and film, and is a frequent voice-over artist for BBC radio and audiobooks.
Stand where history was made

On the outskirts of Bastogne, near the town of Foy, a short walk into the woods leads to the foxholes used by Easy Company of the 506th Parachute Infantry Regiment, 101st Airborne Division. Braving temperatures of 20 degrees below zero, Easy Company held out against intense shelling, aerial attacks, and German assaults. The foxholes, dug on December 18, 1944, are still visible today, and a memorial to Easy Company honors the men who held Bastogne and recaptured Foy.

To the memory of the soldiers of the United States army who while prisoners of war were massacred by Nazi troops on this spot on 17 December 1944. We here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain.

- Inscription on the Malmedy Massacre Memorial

Near Malmedy, Belgium, a memorial consists of 84 flat stones bearing the names of American prisoners massacred in a field by soldiers from Kampfgruppe Peiper who opened fire on the unarmed prisoners. A handful of survivors lived to tell the story of what happened there, which quickly made its way through

Hear their stories

Hear from the men of the Battle of the Bulge who persevered through the toughest conditions: surviving German artillery, tree bursts, and the freezing temperatures. “Cold. It was so cold that if you got wet, you couldn’t get dry.” Lewis “Jack” Baldwin vividly remembers the conditions in which he and his fellow Rangers fought in the Ardennes. With record low temperatures, the weather was as much an enemy as the Germans. Baldwin was told that anyone who was separated from his men would freeze to death.

Take part in one of Bastogne’s most storied traditions, The Nuts Festival. In the 18th Century, young farmhands would converge on Bastogne at the end of the season looking for work for the following year. Those who were successful would buy sweet breads and nuts to bring to their girlfriends. After General Anthony McAuliffe’s famous reply of “Nuts!” to a German demand for surrender, the modern festival has taken on a different meaning. Attended by local and international dignitaries, the festival is a celebration of Bastogne’s survival during the German siege in 1944.

Born in St. Louis, Missouri, Lyle Bouck joined the National Guard at age 14, and found himself in the Ardennes six years later -- in charge of an 18-man intelligence and reconnaissance platoon. He was one of the youngest commissioned officers in the Army, and had grown accustomed to giving orders to older soldiers.

Bouck’s platoon made frequent patrols into Germany to scout terrain and enemy movements, occasionally returning with German prisoners for interrogation. But they never encountered evidence of a looming German attack. During a transfer of divisions in the area around Elsenborn Ridge, Bouck’s platoon was ordered to defend the position near the town of Lanzerath. Holding and defending a position was unusual for an intelligence and reconnaissance platoon, but Bouck had no doubt his men could do the job.

On the morning of December 16, Bouck was surprised by the sound of shelling. The area in front of his platoon was hit, and the shelling was moving closer and closer to his position. Luckily, the firing overshot their position. Bouck wanted to mount an ambush on Germans in Lanzerath, but his position was revealed. Digging in on a hill, Bouck’s men repelled three German frontal assaults, but during a fourth assault, the Germans flanked Bouck’s position. Surrounded and out of ammunition, the men of the Intelligence and Reconnaissance Platoon, 394th Regiment, 99th Infantry Division surrendered.

The efforts of the platoon tied up a much larger German force for an entire day, allowing other American units time to regroup and prepare a defense. For their efforts, all 18 men in the platoon were decorated, and the platoon received the Presidential Unit Citation. Bouck received the Distinguished Service Cross.

Theodore “Ted” Paluch was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, to a small family. Ted followed the war in Europe closely and thought that the United States might eventually get involved. He was playing pinball on Sunday, December 7, 1941, when he heard about the attack on Pearl Harbor from a friend. Initially attempting to enlist in the Marine Corps, which turned him down, he was drafted into the Army in 1943 and sent into combat in the Hürtgen Forest in 1944, as part of the 285th Field Artillery Observation Battalion.

After fighting in the Hürtgen Forest, the 285th was sent south, and ordered to report to St. Vith, Belgium, on December 16. On December 17, one day into the German attack, Paluch and the 285th were passing through the town of Baugnez, where they encountered the lead elements of Kampfgruppe Peiper. Under attack from tanks and vehicles, Paluch jumped into an ice-cold ditch. A German tank commander ordered him and the other remaining men to surrender. They were marched to a field where SS troopers searched the prisoners and took everything of value from them.

As the American prisoners stood in the field with their hands up, the SS troopers left. Suddenly, a column of vehicles approached and began firing into the crowd of prisoners. Next, tanks passed by and fired into the middle of the crowd. Paluch fell to the ground and was hit in the hand. After lying in the field for more than an hour, Paluch and several men escaped toward Malmedy where they reported their story and received treatment for their wounds.

Word of the massacre near Malmedy spread rapidly through American lines and helped strengthen the American resolve to stop the German offensive dead in its tracks. The Battle of the Bulge officially ended on January 25, 1945, when American forces pushed the Germans back to their original pre-December 16 lines.
After breakfast, set out on a full day of battlefield touring. Explore the “northern shoulder” of the Bulge, where the outnumbered Americans on Elsenborn Ridge offered unexpected resistance in the first days of the German attack. Visit the little village of Lanzarath, Belgium, where a small American platoon, under the command of 20-year-old Lieutenant Lyle Bouck, held back 500 German paratroopers for an entire day. Continue to the “twin villages” of Rocherath and Krinkelt, where superior German armor failed to break through the American positions. Enjoy a group lunch and finish the day with a tour of Camp Elsenborn. Along the route today, attend wreath laying ceremonies at Malmedy and Wereth, the sites of horrific massacres.

For only $250, you can honor your personal hero with a classic red brick to be installed on our New Orleans campus. Three lines of personalized text allow you to list your name, the name of a WWII veteran or civilian, a military unit, squadron, ship, or branch of the armed forces active during the war—the choice is yours. These fathers and grandfathers, sons and daughters, friends and neighbors overcame a once-in-a-generation challenge and they deserve a memorial that will last for generations to come.
