Follow the stories of sacrifice and heroism

A seven-day, six-night tour of France, focused on Alex Kershaw's New York Times best-selling books The Bedford Boys and Avenue of Spies.

Dear Friend of the Museum,

It's a great pleasure to invite you to join me on The National WWII Museum's Soldiers and Spies tour, a unique and truly immersive experience that takes you back in time to many of the extraordinary places featured in my books, from the bloodiest sands in American history where the Bedford Boys landed, to the grand avenues of the "City of Lights."

I believe it's the most inspiring journey you can make, one that honors the warriors who gave us everything by making their stories truly personal and memorable—and celebrates their joyous liberation of the most beautiful and romantic city on the planet. We follow in the footsteps of the first wave of Americans to land in Normandy, paying our respects where 19 young men from one small town actually fought and died, while also visiting other key D-Day sites such as Sainte-Mère-Église and Utah Beach.

After breaking out of Normandy, we explore one of the most sinister yet exclusive streets in all of occupied Europe, and then sample the eternal delights of a city that charmed even the most sadistic of Nazi occupiers. And we do it all in high style, staying in grand hotels, experiencing French hospitality at its most authentic and charming, enjoying great wine and cuisine at my favorite restaurants, and of course savoring stories of heroism and sacrifice that will stay with you long after you've sipped your last glass of champagne.

I'm very excited and truly honored to be your host. I hope you'll accompany me on this wonderfully inspiring and deeply moving journey.

Sincerely,

Alex Kershaw
Author and Historian

Featured Historian & Best-selling Author

Alex Kershaw

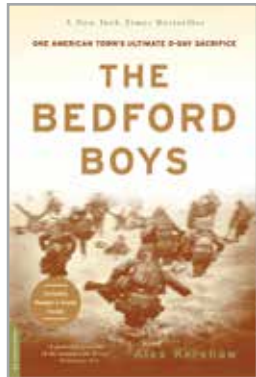

An honorary colonel in the 116th Infantry Regiment of the 29th Division, Alex Kershaw is the widely acclaimed and award-winning author of several New York Times best-selling books about World War II, including The Bedford Boys, The Longest Winter, The Few, Escape from the Deep, The Liberator, and Avenue of Spies. A graduate of University College, Oxford, he worked as a journalist for The Guardian and other newspapers before moving to the United States in 1994. His latest book, The First Wave, was published in May 2019 to mark the 75th anniversary of D-Day.

He lives in Savannah and regularly leads battlefield tours and lectures on World War II. He has been a featured presenter at The International Conference on World War II. Kershaw worked closely with The National WWII Museum to design the Soldiers and Spies itinerary based on his two books Avenue of Spies and The Bedford Boys. His 2012 book, The Liberator, is being made into a drama series to be aired on Netflix in 2020.

ALEX KERSHAW

The Bedford Boys

June 6, 1944: Nineteen boys from Bedford, Virginia, population just 3,000 in 1944, died in the first bloody minutes of D-Day. They were part of Company A of the 116th Regiment of the 29th Infantry Division and the first wave of American soldiers to hit the beaches in Normandy. Later in the campaign, three more boys from this small Virginia town died of gunshot wounds.

Twenty-two sons of Bedford lost—it is a story one cannot easily forget and one that the families of Bedford will never forget. The Bedford Boys is the true and intimate story of these men and the friends and families they left behind.

Based on extensive interviews with survivors and relatives, as well as diaries and letters, Kershaw's book focuses on several remarkable individuals and families to tell one of the most poignant stories of World War II—the story of one small American town that went to war and died on Omaha Beach.

ALEX KERSHAW

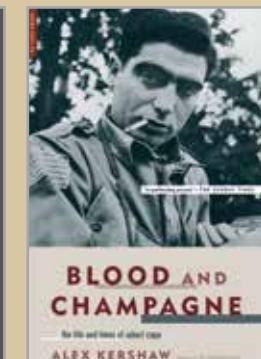

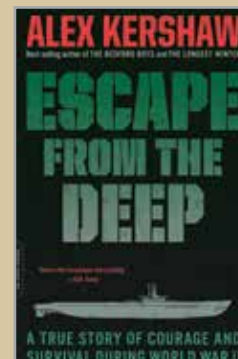

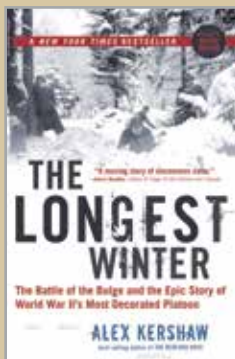

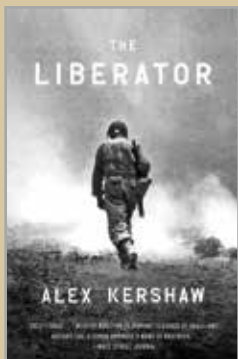

Avenue of Spies

The leafy Avenue Foch, one of the most exclusive residential streets in Nazi-occupied France, was Paris's hotbed of daring spies, murderous secret police, amoral informers, and Vichy collaborators. So when American physician Sumner Jackson, who lived with his wife and young son Phillip at Number 11, found himself drawn into the Liberation network of the French Resistance, he knew the stakes were impossibly high. Just down the road at Number 31 was the “mad sadist” Theodor Dannecker, an Eichmann protégé charged with deporting French Jews to concentration camps. And Number 84 housed the Parisian headquarters of the Gestapo, run by the most effective spy hunter in Nazi Germany.

From his office at the American Hospital, itself an epicenter of Allied and Axis intrigue, Jackson smuggled fallen Allied fighter pilots safely out of France, a job complicated by the hospital director's close collaborationist ties. After witnessing the brutal round-up of his Jewish friends, Jackson invited Liberation to officially operate out of his home at Number 11—but the noose soon began to tighten. When his secret life was discovered by his Nazi neighbors, he and his family were forced to undertake a journey into the dark heart of the war-torn continent from which there was little chance of return.

Remembering Bedford and the Veterans of D-Day

The 116th Infantry’s Company A was a select 200-man unit chosen from among 15,000 GIs in the US Army’s 29th Division to spearhead the most dangerous and critical American assault of the entire war. Nineteen of these soldiers hailed from Bedford, Virginia, and died in the first bloody minutes of D-Day.

“Alex did a splendid job, and having him on tour made the entire trip. He was courteous, enthusiastic, knowledgeable, and engaging—I could not hope for more. I appreciated the balance of a larger scope of history with the human stories interwoven. The tour was excellent, food was great, and hotels were very nice!”

– Rebecca R., Austin, TX

“I had been to most places on the tour before, and I went because of the two books. Alex’s stories made the trip take on a special meaning. I’ve been to Pegasus Bridge, but his information made my second visit come to life like I never could imagine. I’ve been to Paris twice before and never cared for it but this time, I sorta fell in love with it and want to go back again.”

– Bob W., Seattle, WA

“Alex told stories and taught us so much along the way and at every stop that it simply was nonstop fantastic. Oh, and the cemetery in Paris where the Holocaust memorials are, beyond moving.”

– Lynn M., Baltimore, MD

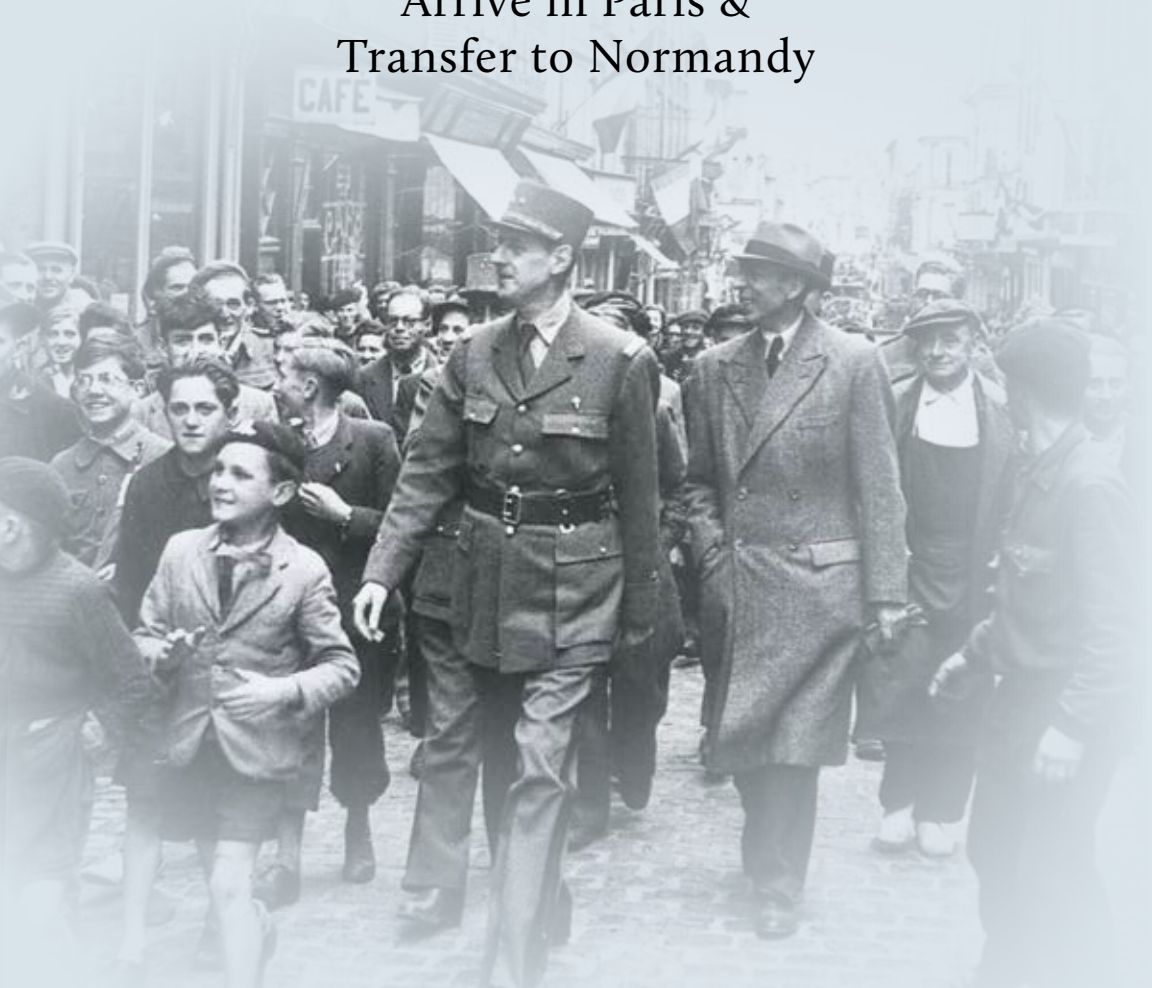

“This was a life-changing trip for me, a bucket list item, and it has me planning the next one sometime soon. I will be doing my travels through the Museum and no other company. I thank you for all you did for us, the work you continue to do for our history, and for what we will be doing together in the future. You are doing a huge service to our country (not being corny), and to our history, and for the vets of World War II by keeping it all alive. Thank you doesn’t begin to cover my gratitude.”

–Todd S., St. Louis, MO

ITINERARY DAY 1

Arrive in Paris & Transfer to Normandy

May 4 - Upon arrival at Charles de Gaulle Airport (CDG) in Paris, guests are warmly welcomed and transported by private motor coach to Normandy. This afternoon, an optional walking tour of the picturesque town of Bayeux is offered. Here, view the Bayeux Tapestry—a 230-foot-long embroidered chronicle of William the Conqueror’s cross-channel invasion of England in 1066. Continue to the medieval center of the town, the Bayeux Cathedral, where a guided tour will bring to life the construction of the cathedral from the crypt to the spires. Alex Kershaw hosts a welcome dinner and tour overview at Le Lion d’Or restaurant this evening. Famed photojournalist Robert Capa and Pulitzer Prize-winning war correspondent Ernie Pyle celebrated the initial successes of D-Day at Le Lion d’Or in June 1944.

“Now that it is over it seems to me a pure miracle that we ever took the beach at all. For some of our units it was easy, but in this special sector where I am now our troops faced such odds that our getting ashore was like my whipping Joe Louis down to a pulp.

In this column I want to tell you what the opening of the second front in this one sector entailed, so that you can know and appreciate and forever be humbly grateful to those both dead and alive who did it for you.”

ITINERARY DAY 2

The First Waves

May 5 - Today's tour of Normandy begins where the first shots of the invasion were fired by British glider troops at the crucial Pegasus Bridge. Learn about Major John Howard and his men of the "Ox and Bucks," and how they were able to secure and hold the bridge. Next, drive along the British sector to Sword Beach, which is now the port village of Ouisterham. After lunch on your own in the area, continue to Juno Beach, the five-mile stretch of beach assigned to the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division and the 2nd Armored Brigade. Faced with rough seas, strong winds, and numerous mines, the Canadian soldiers persevered and achieved the deepest advance into Normandy of any of the five invasion beaches. This afternoon, explore the remains of a "Mulberry Harbor" at Arromanches and learn more about this great feat of engineering and ingenuity. End the day with a visit to the German gun battery at Longues-sur-Mer. Return to Bayeux for an evening at leisure.

ITINERARY DAY 3

Sainte-Mère-Église & Utah Beach

May 6 - Following breakfast at the hotel, touring focuses on the combined efforts of various airborne assaults that took place on June 6, 1944. The first stop is La Fièvre Bridge, where for four days, the 82nd Airborne Division held the strategic bridge against constant German assaults. The next stop is Sainte-Mère-Église, where paratroopers landed during the predawn hours of D-Day. After touring the town, continue to Brécourt Manor, where “Easy Company” of the 101st Airborne Division assaulted German artillery pieces as seen in the book and miniseries Band of Brothers. The day’s final visit is to the Utah Beach Museum. Nestled in the sand dunes and seagrass that once held German defensive positions, this museum tells the story of the men who landed at Utah Beach. Dinner this evening is enjoyed at a quaint Bayeux restaurant.

ITINERARY DAY 4

Pointe du Hoc / Normandy Beach Normandy American Cemetery and Memorial / The Bedford Boys: One Town's D-Day Sacrifice

May 7 - Today's tour begins on the Dog Green sector of Omaha Beach, where the Bedford Boys landed. While standing on Dog Green, Kershaw will recount the horror that awaited them, bringing these men and their histories to life. Visits to Vierville-sur-Mer and St.-Laurent-sur-Mer provide a close-up view of the intricate German defensive system. After lunch, visit the Normandy American Cemetery and Memorial and pay respects to the members of the Bedford Boys buried there. The tour continues to Pointe du Hoc, a strategic point that overlooks the two American invasion beaches. The 2nd Ranger Battalion successfully scaled the cliffs, moving inland to destroy nearby German artillery. End the day by learning about the fighting that took place near the cliffs, as the 2nd and 5th Ranger Battalions fought off multiple German counterattacks. Return to Bayeux for an evening at leisure.

During the war, this street was one of the most exclusive residential streets in Nazi-occupied France. During the tour, Kershaw will recount the tales of intrigue, deception, and danger that took place at various addresses on the avenue. During this section of the tour, guests will learn about various characters from Avenue of Spies, including American physician Sumner Jackson, Colonel Helmut Knochen, and Violette Szabo. 11 Avenue Foch - Home of American physician Sumner Jackson, the protagonist in Avenue of Spies. Here, Sumner lived with his wife and young son Phillip performing dangerous deeds for the French Resistance right under the Nazis' noses.

31 Avenue Foch - Across the street from Number 72, Captain Theodor Dannecker and Lieutenant Colonel Adolf Eichmann spent much of June 1942 planning the Grand Rafle—the Great Roundup—of July 16-17 at number 31, in which German forces took more than 13,000 Jews to a velodrome before shipping them off by train to death camps.

72 Avenue Foch - It was from this imposing white villa where Colonel Helmut Knochen orchestrated the crushing of Resistance forces.

84 Avenue Foch - Number 84 was the site where brutal Gestapo operatives tortured their "enemies," including legendary British Special Operations Executive agents Violette Szabo, "The White Rabbit," and "Madeleine," in efforts to keep their sinister regime in power.

ITINERARY DAYS 6 & 7

The Liberation of Paris

May 9 - The morning tour of Paris begins at Père Lachaise Cemetery, where guests can pay their respects to French Resistance fighters and victims of Nazi rule, like Dr. Jackson and his family. After lunch on your own, partake in a driving tour of Paris focused on the occupation and liberation of the city. Some sights, such as Notre Dame, the Panthéon, and the Opera, were seen by Hitler during his only trip to Paris after the capitulation of France in 1940. Guests will visit the Hôtel de Ville where allied troops first made contact with the heads of the National Council of the Resistance and Paris Committee of Liberation, and Hôtel Le Meurice, where the German surrender took place. Gather this evening for a farewell dinner.
