

The Battle for Peleliu

December 10–17, 2026 | 8 nights | Guam • Koror • Peleliu

Featuring James M. Scott

Peleliu is a small island in the Palau archipelago located some 500 miles east of the Philippines. The “crab claw”-shaped island extends largely from south to north and is roughly seven square miles. History has argued that “the fight for Peleliu was one of the most vicious and stubbornly defended battles of the war.” Today, the island is a lush tropical landscape, with remnants of the battle waiting to be discovered by the few travelers who reach the island per year.

TESTIMONIALS

"Palau offered the nicest hotel, and Peleliu was the most interesting site that we could never have done on our own."

- Henry S., Charleston, SC

"The entire tour was great, but the best part for me was the Peleliu extension—the two days on Peleliu itself (seeing the relics, caves, and beaches; walking the battlefield trail; and the BBQ lunches) and then last day of snorkeling in the Rock Islands."

- Paul H., Lafayette, LA

"My favorite tour stop was Peleliu—an overlooked battle in some ways, extreme degree of conflict, really interesting battle terrain, exotic location."

- Joseph G., Bakersfield, CA

"Peleliu provided access to the most historical artifacts and most emotional memorials."

- Dwight C., Indianapolis, IN

"Peleliu is an outdoor museum and the scenery is spectacular! The lunches just off White Beach was so tranquil in contrast to what it must have been like during the invasion."

- Fill H., San Antonio, TX
